EDF Energy	Yes	We would need to make changes to system we use for accessing and storing his data. We do not have costs from our developer but have been informed that this should be a minor change. We would need at least one month in terms of notice.	Alternate would have same costs and timescales as adding six items instead of five items would not impact on change required.
British Energy Power & Energy Trading Ltd	Yes	This modification would result in a small cost to implement and we would require approximately 3 months notice prior to implementation.
